These Haitian crafts and many more will be available for purchase at The Alternative Giving Fair at STA on December 1st and 2nd, after all masses. Over 200 unique items including metal art, jewelry, coconut creches, Sketches of Saltadere cards, and Singing Rooster Coffee will be ready for gift giving. Prices range from $5 to over $100 for original paintings. One of the new items for sale this year are bracelets made in the Hands Together Group, a Sean Penn initiative. They are designed by women displaced by the earthquake, and are made from cereal and cracker boxes. Purchase of a bracelet helps provide these women with a fair profit and also helps support the students of St. Michel School.
